DR. KENT SPEAKS IN Y. M. G. A. HALL

Discusses Significance of Work Being Done by Organization in State.

Fifth Anniversary Soon to Be Celebrated and High Officials

Referring to the Iportance of young men as an asset, the speaker declared:

"The association is concerned with all men. It knows no distinction of class or circumstances. It is not schooled to dividing the human from the divine in the man, to despise the body as of the dust, and to exalt the spirit as of the heavens, It believes in a salvation here and now, as well as in a larger and better salvation then and there. then and there

Work for Young Men.

"The association is mightily impressed with the necessity of saving young men from habits that undermine the body, from habits that undermine the body, from habits that veaken the mind, from habits that elog moral growth and from triffing with honor, and dilying with the margh line between right and wrong.

"The organization exists for the purpose of helpfulness, in Individual life, in civic life, in social life, and in religious life. All sorts of meetings are held in association halls; ne good cause is foreign to it. It should be an article of the association creed that the association exists to strengthen the church. Its boys' department should be the stairs that lead from the Sunday school to the church.

"The spirit of the association is avoxedly and stepnally Christian. This should be clear to the association and to its friends." It is a great safeguard, the home of the stranger, and the refuge of the perplexed. It is a great philanthropy, compact with the love of mankind, and yearning for the sake of this love to thach men and constrain of this leve to lack men and constrain them by love to lack men and constrain great charity, receiving the rich gifts of money and material to transmute them into grace and power to mould character.

"But at all times it is practical Christianity, and it does it all in the name of Christ. Much credit has been given, and rightly, to the potency of energized civic pride. Has enough been given to the undaunted hopefulness and unconquerable zeal of Christian enthusiasm? We quiver at that word 'enthusiasm,' and well we may, for in its force and in its substance there is a 'God in it.' What God? Upon-this depends the eternal consequences upon which it is fraught.

"Such a movement merits by every consideration of prevention and progress the commendation and active support of tivic officers and intelligent citizens, of social leaders and champions of civilization, of spiritual advisors and advocates of moral progress, and of the weak and helpless, who most need its aid."

Dr. Forsythe, who is a medical man, not a minister, spoke in the most earnest manner, holding the close attention of the large audience, without once raising his voice above a conversational tone. He opened his remarks by telling what the Southern Presbyterlan Church is doing in Korca, which country was first opened to missionary endeavor twenty-two years ago, and which now has from twenty-five to thirty thousand native Christians.

The speaker explained that in the congress of missionary representatives of all denominations, a large part of Korea had been alloted to the Southern Presbyterian Church, and that in this territory there were no other protestant missions.

In this section the Southern Presbyterians maintain 140 preaching points, and have a church membership of 1,650. They have twenty-four missionaries of whom nine are ministers, the section referred to having a population of 3,000,000 people.

Great Need of People.

Great Need of People.

The doctor told a number of incidents that had come under his personal observation of the great need of this people, and of their willingness to hear the gospel preached. He also spoke interestingly of the medical work, especially among children, and of the bondage of the heathen worship which holds the country in a close grip, being a service of evil spirits with Buddism and ancestor worship.

Dr. Porsythe regards Korea as the key to the evangelization of the Orient, lying as it does just between Japan, with her 49,000,000 people, and China, with her 427,000,000. Counting all denominations, thore are at present in Korea one missionary to every 26,000 people. Dr. Forsythe said:

In all the Baptist churches of the city yesterday was begun the campaign to raise by subscription $10,000 to bo used as a fund for church extension, for mission work and to aid the weaker churches of the Baptist Council of Richmond and Manchester.

Dr. James Buchanan, general sceretary of the Associated Charities, spoke in behalf of the church extension fund at the Second Baptist Church, where all the members were asked to contribute as much as they were able toward the fund.

Dr. Buchanan recited the great need closed amid great enthusiasm, in which all shared.

The church membership and the attendance at Sunday-school has grown so recently that not a few were turned away yesterday, and the need of a larger church has been for some months apparent. After the debt had been paid off the present church yesterday one lady member came forward and proposed to start a collection for a new church fund, and declared that she would donate $50, for this purpose.

Dr. Buchanan recited the great need for just such a fund to be used to forward the interests of the weaker churches and to aid in the establishments of missions. It is expected that there will be a liberal response in all the churches. there will be a liberal response in all the churches.

Cooperative work of this kind is rather unusual in the Baptist denomination, in which it is more customary to raise money by individual effort and subscription than by cooperative effort. Notwithstanding this, it is thought that the collections and pledges secured yesterday will nearly, if not quite, complete the fund.
